Introduction:

Information and Communication Technology (ICT) has changed the traditional methods of library activities and services providing new dimensions for teaching, learning and research in higher educational institutions. Libraries are under pressure to provide quick services to its patrons to meet their requirements. Therefore, Libraries and Librarians need to adopt latest ICT tools to manage the libraries effectively and efficiently. Perceptions and expectations of the scholars have changed due to change and advancement of ICT in the libraries. Libraries are also considered as social place where users not only can study or access of information but also can perform other activities like group projects, cyber space, community space etc. The aim of any educational institute is to uphold the quality of education, research and scholarly communication. With the advent of sources of information from the digital world, the evaluation of academic writing has become a major challenge for the faculty community. As we are aware, authenticity, honesty and quality adherence in academic writing bring academic integrity. Apart from evaluating the students and researchers for skills, knowledge, and critical thinking talents in this information age, evaluating them for the academic integrity to prepare them to become responsible, contributing citizens is a real challenge. Also, leading journals take special care to ensure that this integrity is maintained. The workshop has been conceptualized to introduce the different dimensions of academic integrity.

About the Workshop

The workshop aims to sensitize the participants on Writing and publishing scientific papers, 'Issues related to Plagiarism' and how the power of reference manager can be used in their research activities. The focus of the workshop is to provide hands-on training on Reference Management tools like Mendeley – or other a free reference manager” to the participants.

Plagiarism is considered as a form of misconduct in scholarly communications. You, as a researcher, must have heard about it; or you might know what it is. However, there exists ambiguity about it in academic community. When does plagiarism occur? Is there any established percentage to determine when plagiarism has taken place? Is there a rule of thumb to determine plagiarism? Are there different types of it? What may be the consequences if plagiarism is detected? How to avoid it? This workshop aims to address these types of questions. Use of reference manager can be a powerful addition to your research activities. Mendeley is a free Reference Manager and Academic Social Network that can assist you in managing references, research papers (PDFs), annotating your PDFs, taking searchable notes, citing while you are writing, automatically creating bibliographies, syncing your account between multiple computers, collaborating, and discovering new research in fields of interest.
