I found a group of bright academicians who believed in my vision, and today IIHMR has three campuses in Jaipur, Bangalore and Delhi. The strength of IIHMR has been its faculty members. We have already done 800+ research studies and 3000 students' dissertations which is a significant contribution. Most of our graduates are dealing with COVID 19 as frontline workers, which makes us feel proud."

Dr. S. D. Gupta addressed the students and faculty online. Dr. Gupta said, " The institute has closely worked with the Government of India and other state governments in the management and execution of national health programs including the HIV control program, Immunization program and Blindness control program." Dr. Sodani said, "we have successfully executed 35 years of excellence. Today we have created leadership in the domain area of health management in the country and globally. The institute was set up with a different vision. The country had many hospitals, but the hospitals' management remained a critical issue. There was an urgent need for an institute like IIHMR during that time. Even during COVID 19, it has been observed that the management of public health services is highly required. Initially, the institute's focus was research. Therefore, the initial years of IIHMR were spent in conducting research. Today we have created a space in the country as a renowned health management organization."

The program was coordinated by Dr. Veena N Sarkar, Assistant Professor, IIHMR University. A vote of thanks was extended by Dr. Deepti Sharma, Associate Professor, IIHMR University.
