"Novo Nordisk Master Class cum Workshop – Fit for Future"
TOPIC: "Fit For Future" – Obesity, Diabetes Care and the Novo Nordisk Journey
DATE: August 10, 2026 (Monday)
VENUE: IIHMR University, Jaipur (OFFLINE MODE)
SPEAKERS: Ms. Sucharita Dey, Senior Manager – P&O Partnering, Novo Nordisk India; and Mr. Nitish Sharma, P&O Partnering Manager, Novo Nordisk India
NUMBER OF PARTICIPANTS: 202 Students
INTRODUCTION: The Novo Nordisk Master Class cum Workshop titled "Fit For Future" was held on August 10, 2026 (Monday), at IIHMR University, Jaipur, in offline mode. The session was moderated by Mr. Harsh Dwivedi and Mr. Mahantesh Kagale (PM 2025–27 Batch) , and the guest speakers were Ms. Sucharita Dey, Senior Manager – P&O Partnering, Novo Nordisk India, and Mr. Nitish Sharma, P&O Partnering Manager, Novo Nordisk India.
OBJECTIVE: The workshop aimed to sensitise pharmaceutical management students to the rising burden of obesity and diabetes and to how a leading global healthcare company is innovating to address them. It sought to build an appreciation of Novo Nordisk's century-long legacy in diabetes care, familiarise participants with the company's evolving product portfolio including next-generation therapies, and encourage reflection on everyday lifestyle choices – framed as “food versus time” – that shape long-term health outcomes. The session also introduced students to the People & Organisation (HR) function within a global pharmaceutical company, covering culture, employee benefits, and career pathways, helping students assess how “fit” they are for the future of the industry and of their own health.
SALIENT NOVEL POINTS COVERED: 1. Novo Nordisk's journey was traced from its founding in 1923 in Denmark to its present position as a global leader in diabetes, obesity, and rare-disease care, showing how a century of insulin research shaped both its current portfolio and future pipeline. 2. Obesity was presented as a chronic, multi-factorial disease rather than a lifestyle failing, with the speakers covering what obesity is, why it develops, and how it can be addressed through a combination of medical and behavioural approaches. 3. The speakers introduced Awiqli (insulin icodec), Novo Nordisk's newly launched once-weekly basal insulin for adults with type 2 diabetes, explaining how it reduces basal insulin injections from seven a week to just one while offering blood-sugar control comparable to daily insulin. 4. A key discussion point was the social stigma attached to insulin – the perception of it as a “last resort” or a marker of disease severity – and how this taboo often delays the timely use of a therapy that is, in fact, one of the safest and most effective tools for managing diabetes.

5. The “Food v/s Time” segment encouraged students to reflect on everyday lifestyle trade-offs – convenience food and sedentary routines versus time invested in health – as a determinant of long-term wellbeing.
6. An interactive “Are You Fit For Future?” exercise prompted students to self-assess their own habits against the risk factors discussed for obesity and diabetes.
7. The speakers shared insights into Novo Nordisk's people-first workplace culture and outlined the organisation's employee benefits and career growth opportunities within the People & Organisation (P&O) function.
8. The session highlighted career pathways available to pharmaceutical management graduates within global healthcare companies, particularly in People & Organisation, market access, and patient engagement roles.

Q&A and Interactive Session: The session concluded with an engaging and interactive Q&A segment, during which students raised questions on Novo Nordisk's product pipeline, career opportunities within the People & Organisation function, and ways to build healthier long-term lifestyle habits.

CONCLUSION: The workshop gave students a well-rounded understanding of how a global healthcare leader like Novo Nordisk connects scientific innovation with patient and employee wellbeing – from its century-long legacy in insulin research and the launch of Awiqli, to the everyday realities of obesity, diabetes stigma, and lifestyle choices. By pairing this with a candid look at the company's culture and employee benefits, the session equipped students with both public-health perspective and industry insight relevant to a career in pharmaceutical management.
