Jaipur : IIHMR University, a leading health management research university, successfully conducted an Orientation Program for the National Service Scheme (NSS). The program witnessed enthusiastic participation from over 60 volunteers who pledged to dedicate their time and energy towards NSS activities. These initiatives include community service projects aimed at strengthening the fabric of the nation through impactful grassroots work.

The event was graced by Shri S.P. Bhatnagar, Regional Director of NSS, Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports, Government of India, as the keynote speaker. He provided an insightful orientation to the NSS volunteers, emphasizing the core objectives and functioning of the NSS and its pivotal role in fostering nation-building and the personal development of India's youth. Shri Bhatnagar also highlighted the profound meaning of the NSS motto, “Not Me But You,” underscoring the spirit of selfless service.

Dr. PR Sodani, President, IIHMR University, inspired the volunteers to contribute wholeheartedly to nation-building through community service, and shared, “At IIHMR University, we firmly believe in empowering youth to lead transformative change through selfless community service. The National Service Scheme is a powerful platform that instills a sense of responsibility, compassion, and leadership among students. By working with marginalized communities, our volunteers will not only contribute to building a stronger nation but also enrich their personal growth through meaningful experiences. Together, we can make a difference, one step at a time.”

As part of the event, nine students were felicitated for their outstanding contributions in competitions such as quizzes, e-poster designs, and reels conducted on the 150th Birth Anniversary of Shri Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel and Constitutional Day.
