2. EVENT DETAILS

IIHMR University, Jaipur, organised a two-day Faculty Development Programme on “Ethics and Values” on January 30–31, 2026. The programme was organised to promote reflection, dialogue, and value-based learning among faculty members and to strengthen ethical leadership in higher education.

The programme focused on the importance of ethics and values in academic and professional life. It provided a platform for faculty members to reflect on their responsibilities as educators, researchers, mentors, and institutional role models.

The discussions highlighted the role of ethical conduct in teaching, research, academic administration, student engagement, and institutional decision-making. Emphasis was also placed on integrity, accountability, fairness, respect, professionalism, and responsible leadership in the higher education environment.

The programme encouraged faculty members to examine how value-based practices can contribute to a positive academic culture and strengthen trust among students, colleagues, and other stakeholders. The interactive nature of the programme enabled participants to share experiences and consider practical approaches to incorporating ethics into their academic and professional responsibilities.

Overall, the Faculty Development Programme served as a meaningful capacity-building initiative for promoting ethical standards in teaching and research and for strengthening value-based leadership at IIHMR University.
