IIHMR University organised an MSME Hackathon to encourage innovation, entrepreneurship, and solution-oriented thinking among students and emerging innovators. The event provided a platform for participants to identify real-world challenges faced by micro, small, and medium enterprises and develop practical, scalable, and technology-enabled solutions.

The hackathon encouraged participants to work collaboratively in teams and apply design thinking, business planning, market analysis, technology, and interdisciplinary knowledge to address selected problem statements. Participants were encouraged to move beyond theoretical ideas and develop solutions with potential for practical implementation and social or economic impact.

The event provided an opportunity for students and innovators to present their ideas before mentors and evaluators. The mentoring and evaluation process helped participants refine their concepts, validate the relevance of their solutions, and understand the importance of feasibility, sustainability, scalability, and user needs.

The hackathon also supported the development of entrepreneurial competencies, including creativity, critical thinking, teamwork, communication, leadership, problem-solving, presentation, and risk assessment. Participants gained exposure to the process of converting an idea into a structured innovation or enterprise proposal.
