Background

Medical Value Travel (MVT) is one of the fastest-growing segments of the global healthcare industry, with patients increasingly travelling across international borders for affordable, high-quality, and timely care. India has emerged as a preferred destination owing to its internationally accredited hospitals, skilled healthcare professionals, and cost-effective treatment options creating rising demand for professionals who can manage international patient care, healthcare operations, quality standards, regulatory compliance, and healthcare marketing.

This Online Certificate Programme is designed to prepare healthcare professionals with the knowledge and practical skills required to manage international patient services and MVT operations effectively. The programme combines conceptual learning with case studies, simulation exercises, and industry interactions, enabling participants to immediately apply these skills within hospitals and International Patient Departments (IPDs).

Objectives

The programme aims to:

-  Develop a comprehensive understanding of the global Medical Value Travel ecosystem.
-  Equip participants with skills to manage international patient services and healthcare logistics.
-  Develop competencies in ethical, regulatory, policy, and quality standards for MVT.
-  Strengthen capabilities in quality management, digital marketing, branding, and business development.
-  Enable participants to design implementation-ready operational strategies for International Patient

Pedagogy

The programme adopts a learner-centric and practice-oriented approach that combines interactive faculty sessions, industry expert lectures, case studies, and simulation exercises with real-world application. Participants gain hands-on experience through group discussions, presentations, and a Strategic Project, in which they develop a ready-to-implement operational blueprint for establishing, expanding, or strengthening an International Patient Department (IPD).
